

Issue Redefinition Technique

Sam Otieno

HBCU-Africa Correspondents Corps

Initial Question: Are Kenya's institutions of higher learning receptive of Artificial Intelligence as the 'second brain'?

Rephrased Question: Are Kenyan universities preparing to integrate Artificial Intelligence into local knowledge production in tertiary education?

Why Questions

Why are Kenyan universities preparing to integrate Artificial Intelligence into local knowledge production in tertiary education?

Why would student interests lead Kenyan universities to prepare to integrate Artificial Intelligence into local knowledge production in tertiary education?

Synthesis: Kenyan universities believe the benefits of Artificial Intelligence outweigh the costs in the context of local knowledge production in tertiary education

Broad Questions

Are African universities preparing to integrate AI into local knowledge production in tertiary education?

Narrow Questions

Is the University of Nairobi preparing to integrate Artificial intelligence into local knowledge production in tertiary education?

Redirected Questions

How are Kenyan universities preparing to integrate Artificial Intelligence into local knowledge production in tertiary education?

Where are Kenyan universities preparing to integrate Artificial Intelligence into local knowledge production in tertiary education?

When are Kenyan universities preparing to integrate Artificial Intelligence into local knowledge production in tertiary education?

180° Degree Question: Are Kenyan universities preparing to block the integration of Artificial intelligence into local knowledge production in tertiary education?